

The following book is being published in connection with the congress and will shortly be available to order.

Problem gambling: Harm-reduction as a public health approach.

H. Bowden-Jones, C. Dickson, C. Dunand and O. Simon (Eds.). London: Routledge.

The book is aimed at all mental health professionals and academics with an interest in: problem gambling, behavioural addictive disorders, harm reduction, prevention issues and policy making.

It brings together the work of international experts from the field of problem gambling.

The material will reflect issues and presentations given at the 3rd International Congress for Gambling disorders (Neuchatel, 2014) and 4th International Congress (Fribourg, 2018).

Chapters include:

Gambling and democracy – Peter Adams, Auckland University, New Zealand

Measuring harm from gambling and estimating its distribution in the population – Matthew Browne, Victorian Responsible Gambling Foundation, Australia

Social costs of excessive gambling - Claude Jeanrenaud, Conservationist, Institute for economic research, University of Neuchatel, Switzerland

The normalisation of dangerous gambling: An ethical issue - Jim Orford, Professor, School of Psychology, University of Birmingham, UK.

Family members affected by excessive gambling - Jim Orford, School of Psychology, University of Birmingham, UK

Neurocognitive components of gambling disorder: Implications for policy, prevention, and treatment – José Navas, Associate Professor, Department of Experimental Psychology, University of Granada, Spain; Joel Billieux, Professor, Psychological Sciences Research Institute, Catholic University of Louvain, Belgium; Antonio Verdejo Garcia, Associate Professor, School of Psychological Sciences, Monash University, Australia; José César Perales, Associate Professor, Department of Experimental Psychology, University of Granada, Spain

Defining RHR and harm reduction legislation - Olivier Simon, Centre de jeu excessif, Lausanne, Switzerland.

Harm prevention and reduction efforts for gambling disorder: An international perspective - Charles Livingstone, Senior Lecturer, Monash University, Melbourne, Australia

Effective harm reduction: Public health approaches– Darren Christensen, Faculty of Health Sciences, University of Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada

Public health and Gambling: The potential of “Nudge” policies –Magaly Brodeur, Université de Sherbrooke, Québec, Canada

Identifying at risk gamblers early to reduce harm - Suzanne Lischer, Lecturer and Project Manager, Hochschule Luzern - Soziale Arbeit Luzern, Switzerland

Behavioural tracking in gambling: The use and efficacy of online responsible gambling tools - Mark Griffiths, Professor of Gambling Studies, International Gaming Research Unit, Psychology Division, Nottingham Trent University, Nottingham, UK

The role of treatment in reducing gambling-related harm - David Hodgins, Professor, Department of Psychology, University of Calgary, Canada

Challenges of the Internet and ICT for risk and harm-reduction (RHR) – Louise Nadeau, Magali Dufour, Richard Guay, Sylvia Kairouz, Jean-Marc Ménard, Catherine Paradis, Psychology Department, University of Montreal, Quebec, Canada

A logical framework for the evaluation of a harm reduction gambling policy – Jean-Michel Costes, Director, Observatoire Des Jeux (ODJ), Paris, France

Is income derived from problem gambling a good assessment indicator of a responsible gambling strategy? – Jean-Michel Costes, Director, Observatoire Des Jeux (ODJ), Paris, France